Modularbank is a cloud-native banking platform designed to offer next-generation banking experiences for both retail and business banking. It allows any business to rapidly offer seamless, tailored financial services to its customers.

We believe that the best solutions are developed through teamwork and through sharing and questioning ideas. The culture at Modularbank echoes the ethos of its founders – we pride ourselves in being at the leading edge of banking innovation and for daring to push banking services into the future.

As a rapidly growing startup, we're scaling our technical project team in Tallinn and we need a skilled Business Analyst with a can-do attitude to contribute to the success of our product.

Tasks at hand:
- Writing specifications, user stories, use cases, defining interfaces, and providing them to development teams
- Managing Modularbank’s implementations
- Successfully executing projects by coordinating resources and time
- Managing internal (technical project team) and external (client-side) stakeholders and daily communication
- Time management to plan internal resources accordingly
- Financial forecasting and planning of project budgets, including invoicing

Role essentials:
- At least 3 years of professional experience as an IT analyst, architect, or a project manager
- Studies (BA/MA) in the field of IT or technology
- Solid experience in platform or software implementation, UML and BPMN, and hands-on experience with databases and data modeling
- Experience in defining APIs, use and test cases
- Previous experience in banking or finance, but if you feel this is something you’d be committed to learning, that’s also fine with us
- Great time management skills, the ability to plan and meet deadlines
- Excellent communication skills in English

Value offer:
- Challenging, yet inspiring startup environment
- Cooperation with international multicultural organizations
- Opportunity to take ownership, get fully involved, and design your own field of work
- Freedom to make an impact, within the team and the company
- Opportunity to shape a high-performing company culture
- Highly-talented and youthful team located both in Tallinn and Berlin
- Growth in your career.

Interested?
Please send your CV to jobs@modularbank.co and let’s talk!